POEM welcomes Constance Commitment to Snug Cove Project

“The commitment by the new NSW State Government to the Safe Harbour Project in Snug Cove announced by the Member for Bega, and Minister for Transport and Infrastructure, Andrew Constance is extremely pleasing” the President of the Port of Eden Marina Inc, Fritz Drenkhahn said today.

We now have a clear way forward.

The basic geo-technical work has been completed and details of the project and a timeline will be announced mid year.

We are very pleased that the construction of the attenuator will be done in conjunction with the Breakwater Wharf extension for the cruise ships. There are obvious synergies between the two projects and opportunities to improve efficiency and reduce costs.

Hopefully it won't be too long before the many vessels that shelter on the south side of Twofold Bay during southerly gales will be able to berth comfortably and safely in Snug Cove. The town will welcome the opportunity to show some hospitality and provide the supplies and services the crews will all appreciate.
